

Consulting

RCM Aeroservices Inc. undertakes a variety of consultative evaluations.

These are all designed in order to assist in bringing about improvement in operational reliability and cost management, and they fall into two categories:

- operational evaluations; and
- technical evaluations

Typical consulting work may involve:

- organizational structure
- organizational communication
- processes and process improvement
- monitoring and compliance
- operational strengths and weaknesses
- training

Our reports include work plan recommendations intended to bring about short, mid and long-term operational enhancements.
